Brief History

The son of Scottish immigrants, Harold Gregor (1929-2018) was born in Detroit, MI, and earned his PhD from Ohio State University. He served as professor of art history and painting at San Diego State University, Purdue University, and Chapman College before joining Illinois State University in 1970 and retiring from there in 1995. He became known as the founder of the Heartland School of landscape painters and had work displayed at prominent locations and exhibitions internationally. Gregor received a host of awards and grants and was represented by galleries in Chicago, Santa Fe, New York City, and Milwaukee as well as having his own gallery in downtown Bloomington.
