Brief History

The Abraham Lincoln Bicentennial Commission of McLean County was formed jointly by Bloomington, Normal and McLean County to celebrate the bicentennial of Lincoln's birth and highlight his connections with McLean County.

The commission organized a variety of events. They also raised funds to commission a statue of Lincoln with Jesse Fell and David Davis outside the Bloomington Center for the Performing Arts (BCPA).

And, they commissioned two locals, Robert C. Bray and Nancy Steele Brokaw, to write a play about Lincoln's McLean County involvements and influences. Lincoln's In Town was presented at the BCPA in February 2009.
