BRIEF HISTORY

Josephine Lucille Sanders
“Irene Delroy”

Josephine Lucille Sanders was born July 21, 1900 in Bloomington to parents Royal Woodsen Sanders and Della Sanders (nee Soverns). Her parents were married Sept 2, 1897 and Josephine was their first child.

Josephine had one brother, named Lindley Soverns Sanders, who was born Oct 31, 1902. During these early years of her childhood her father was a teacher of mathematics, civics, and commercial law at Bloomington High School and was also in charge of the girls’ basketball team. Sometime between 1902 and 1908 the family moved to Minneapolis, MN.

Lindley died in Minneapolis, MN at noon on May 31, 1909 of scarlet fever. His body was returned to Bloomington, IL to be buried at the family plot in Evergreen Cemetery.

Irene studied ballet in Chicago in her late teens, and secured a spot in the Chicago Opera Ballet in 1919. Although her parents were initially reluctant to let her seek a career in show business, her success with the Chicago Opera convinced them otherwise. Around this time Josephine Sanders took her stage name “Irene Delroy.” The “Delroy” was a combination of her parents’ names, Della and Royal. During her career Royal Sanders lived in Peoria, IL, and Della Sanders traveled with Irene.

Until 1930, Irene starred consistently in follies, plays and musicals, including Greenwich Village Follies, Ziegfeld Follies, Hitchy Koo, Follow Thru and Here’s Howe. She then signed a contract with Warner Bros. She made four movies with them, of which the best promoted was Divorce Among Friends, until 1931, when she decided to marry William L. Austin, Jr., a business man. Bill Austin did not want her to continue her career, despite the fact that her contract with Warner Bros was good for another four years, so they signed a prenuptial agreement in which Irene Delroy would receive a large amount of stock in Austin’s company in exchange for canceling her contract. Irene Delroy became known as either Mrs. William Austin Jr. or Irene Delroy Austin.

The marriage was unsuccessful, and after a separation agreement in 1935, Irene moved to Reno to obtain a divorce in 1937. Bill Austin remarried, and died in 1963. Irene Delroy became known as either Irene Delroy when performing or Mrs. J. Sanders Austin.

After the separation Irene went back to work in show business, and played in a 1935 production of Anything Goes with Victor Moore and also put her beautiful voice to use in radio productions. During the war she was a volunteer nurse’s aide at Memorial Hospital, New York. Josephine was interested in genealogy and was a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution. She remarried in November 1972 to Dr. Girard F. Oberrender, a throat specialist. She then became known as Mrs. Josephine Oberrender. She died June 14, 1985 in Ithaca, NY.

The Career of Irene Delroy took Josephine Sanders all over the country; many places that people from Central Illinois only dreamed of visiting. The story of Josephine Sanders is an interesting one to say the least. While the places that her career took her and the people she met along the way are something of a fairytale for a girl from the Midwest, it was not without certain consequences. The profound career of Josephine Sanders put an immense amount of stress on her family, particularly the marriage of her parents Royal and Della. With Royal and Della being separated for long periods of time, it was difficult for them to cooperate in raising their daughter, and they both experienced periods of depression. Royal spent much of his time traveling around Illinois to find as much business as he could, so as to have enough money to support himself and also send money East to support Della and Josephine. Royal had strict guidelines on how he felt money should be spent and who Josephine should be surrounding herself with. Much of the conflict between Royal and Della is due to the people Josephine surrounded herself with and her spending habits. Unfortunately, the marriage of Royal and Della would be filled with disagreements and feelings of distrust until Della's death on February 5, 1933.

The career of Josephine Sanders would bring her fame and fortune, but would bring her many misfortunes as well. During her time in show business she would see the destruction of her parents' marriage, she would struggle with the pressures of being in the spotlight, she would be stalked, and would enter into a marriage that would end in divorce and effectively end her career. When looking back on the career of Josephine Sanders one must not focus completely on the fame that she found, but also consider the effect her fame had on her and her family. It is truly a story of a hometown girl who made it big, but is also a tragic story of a family torn apart by the fame and fortune acquired while in the spotlight.

Box 3: Correspondence

Folder 1: Josephine Sanders (Irene Delroy) Correspondence I 1921 – 1926.

This correspondence from R.W. Sanders to Josephine Sanders (Irene Delroy) was in response to letters sent from Irene and Della Sanders, his wife. Both Irene and Della were out East as Irene's career in show business took off.

3.1.1 Correspondence from R.W. Sanders to Josephine Sanders dated September 4, 1921 – April 11, 1926.

Topics include R.W. Sanders' paint business, weather, stories of events back home, automobiles, and money. Mr. Sanders disapproves of the way his daughter and wife are handling their money, and is also not pleased with the life style that his daughter has become accustomed to. Yet, Mr. Sanders misses them both dearly and throughout the letters, discusses how he wishes that they were back home with him once again. R.W. Sanders' second to last letter in this grouping marked September 6, 1925, tells of his disappointment in his daughter and wife. He is particularly upset with himself, because he feels that he should have done more to stop Josephine from going into show business, and instead should have forced her to continue her education.

Items included: Chicago Fire and Marine Insurance Company brochure and a sexually explicit gag gift.

3.1.2 Telegram from R.W. Sanders to Josephine Sanders dated January 1, 1926 (Mr. Sanders wishing his daughter continued success during the New Year.)

Folder 2: Josephine Sanders (Irene Delroy) Correspondence II 1932-36

Folder 2 is a continuation of the correspondence between R.W. Sanders and Josephine Sanders (Irene Delroy) that picks up in 1932. Josephine was living in New York at this time with her husband Bill Austin, Jr., and R.W. Sanders was living in Peoria, Illinois and seems to be much more forgiving of Josephine pertaining to the career she has chosen.

3.2.1 Correspondence from R.W. Sanders to Josephine Sanders dated November 17, 1932 to August 23, 1936.

Topics include: Health, business, visits, weather, depression [due to the lack of family during holidays, his wife's death on February 5, 1933, and from lack of communication with family], Irene's visit to the Chicago Fair in 1933, argument with R. W. Sanders' brother Harold and Harold's wife, May, over the assets of R.W. Sanders' parents, fire in Chicago 1934, business affairs of William Austin Jr., dust storms of the mid 1930s, a chain letter, and Josephine in Anything Goes in 1935. In their weekly correspondence, R.W. Sanders seems much more attached to his daughter in this second set of letters. It is possible that in his old age he has relaxed his views on the importance of raising a family and getting a good education. Yet, his new found appreciation for his daughter could be due to the loss of his wife and the loneliness that consumed him following her death.

Items included: Outline to R.W. Sanders' apartment in Peoria, an article regarding the financial straits of Ben Marshall, article on how nudists age quicker, article on Miss Eva Shaw, article on screen oddities by Captain Roscoe Fawcett, articles on Boston terriers, article on moon eclipse in July 1935, article on the dear of Mrs. Louis B. Merwin whom owned The Pantagraph, article in The Chicago Tribune advertising Anything Goes, and a photograph of Mrs. Adlai Stevenson in The Chicago Tribune.

- Folder 3: Josephine Sanders (Irene Delroy) Correspondence III 1947-1948
Folder 3 contains correspondence between Harold Sanders and Josephine Sanders which seemed to begin after the death of Harold's wife, May. There seems to be no bitterness between the two that was alluded to between Josephine and R.W. Sanders. The conflict was over the assets of Harold and R.W.'s parents after their deaths.
- 3.3.1 Correspondence from Uncle Harold Sanders to Josephine Sanders dated February 3, 1947 – March 4, 1948.
 Topics include: loneliness since his wife died, selling his house, weather, family, and health, selling his company (Bloomington Pop-Corn Company), and moving into his new cottage at Lake Geneva. Harold continually tells Josephine that she is the only thing he has left in the world. He seems very protective of Josephine, always warning her to be careful and to stay healthy. It would seem that he is doing all he can to avoid the death of another family member, especially one who continually humors him by writing weekly. Items include: Newspaper clippings of events that took place in McLean County, a Valentine's Day card, a post card, and a pamphlet on recipes for mixed drinks sponsored by Bellows & Company.
- Folder 4: Josephine Sanders (Irene Delroy) Correspondence IV 1948-1949
Folder 4 is a continuation of the correspondence between Harold Sanders and Josephine Sanders. The subjects discussed are similar, but it is noticeable that Harold has begun to recover from the depression that burdened him after the death of his wife. The letters come to a rather unexpected end on August 5, 1949. Yet, we have what appear to be two letters from Harold in 1957.
- 3.4.1 Correspondence from Uncle Harold Sanders to Josephine Sanders dated March 24, 1948 – August 5, 1949.
 Topics include: loneliness since his wife died, weather, family, his cottage at Lake Geneva, trouble with his kidneys, cars, his 76th birthday November 7, 1948, his cats, buying stocks, and Dorothy looking to buy a house on Lake Geneva with her husband Frank. Harold seemed to be again truly enjoying his life in Wisconsin with his cats.
- 3.4.2. Correspondence from Uncle Harold Sanders to Josephine Sanders dated 1957
 Two letters that are illegible but appear to be from Harold Sanders
- Folder 5: Josephine Sanders (Irene Delroy) Correspondence V 1935-1938
- 3.5.1 Correspondence from W.L. Austin, Jr. to Josephine Sanders dated October 18, 1935 – April 20, 1938.
 Topics include: Bill's money troubles, Bill requesting financial aid from Josephine, publicity, real estate, and weather. Most of their correspondence takes place while Josephine is out on the road doing her stage show, Anything Goes, starting in 1935. Josephine Sanders and W.L. Austin, Jr. were divorced in 1937, and there is one letter that is written in 1938, that reads as if Bill has no hard feelings and wishes Josephine the best in her future endeavors.
- Folder 6: Josephine Sanders (Irene Delroy) Correspondence VI 1936
This correspondence between Josephine Sanders and Dorothy Sanders begins after R.W. remarried. The letters to Josephine from Dorothy become more frequent as R.W. Sanders' health declines due to cancer, and Dorothy begins to take over the duty of weekly correspondence. Towards the end of R.W. Sanders' life the letters come to Josephine daily, with constant updates on her father's health.

- 3.6.1 Correspondence from Dorothy Sanders to Josephine Sanders dated January 2, 1936 – October 26, 1936. Topics include: Visiting Josephine while she performs in Anything Goes in Chicago, how the Sanders enjoyed their vacation to New York to visit Josephine, weather, R.W. Sanders’ bladder condition, operation to look at prostate, prostate cancer, x-ray treatments. Two of the letters were written by Miss Edna Mayhew or “babe” as she was referred to in the letters. These letters are updates on Mr. Sanders’ condition as well as a letter that Mr. Sanders asked her to dictate. A few of the letters are very emotional as Dorothy and the doctors did not tell Mr. Sanders of his condition right away, and Mr. Sanders still talks of going out east and living with Dorothy in a cottage near Josephine when he gets better. The majority of the letters are just updates on R.W. Sanders’ condition. Royal is very optimistic. The doctors have told him the severity of his condition and the malignancy of his tumor, but he ignores their word and instead believes he is receiving x-ray treatments as means of prevention.
- There is a break in the letters from October 26, 1936 and November 14, 1936. It is during this time on, on October 31, 1936, that R.W. Sanders died in his hotel room at St. Francis Hospital, in Peoria, IL. Previous letters did not seem to suggest that his death would be any time within the near future. As the letters came to a sudden stop and there is no letter or telegram that suggested the end was near for Mr. Sanders, it can be assumed that Royal’s health took a sudden turn for the worse. Though there is no letter stating that Josephine would be making the trip to see her father before he passed, we know through newspaper articles that Josephine was at her father’s side at the time of his passing. Items include: Postcards from St. Francis Hospital, chapel and convent in Peoria, IL (back of the postcard shows the hospital and the view that Mr. Sanders can see out his window) and newspaper clippings of interest from The Peoria Journal.

Folder 7: Josephine Sanders (Irene Delroy) Correspondence VII 1936 – 1941
This correspondence between Dorothy Sanders and Josephine Sanders is a continuation of previous correspondence. This set of letters and telegrams begin after the death of Dorothy’s husband Royal.

- 3.7.1 Correspondence from Dorothy Sanders to Josephine Sanders dated November 14, 1936-May 16, 1937. Topics include: the mourning of R.W. Sanders death, taking care of Royal’s business, helping transfer over Royal’s business to another person within the company, planning a trip to get away from what reminds her of her diseased husband, her office will hold her spot for her for 60 days, and Josephine’s divorce. Dorothy seems to be quite depressed in her letters but was seemed to be doing her best to keep her spirits up. This time was a difficult time for both Dorothy and Josephine, as they dealt with deaths in the family and difficulties at home.
- Items include: short letter by Jackie (kid), playful card with a puppy on the cover, and a thank you card for the Easter wishes that Josephine sent Dorothy.
- 3.7.2 Correspondence from Dorothy Sanders to Irene dated June 30, 1941
 This letter has quite a nasty tone to it. The letter includes a request for a loan from Irene for the sum of 300 dollars. Dorothy makes it quite clear that she had given the money to Irene on several other occasions and that it is about time she returns the favor. The letter ends on a more positive note, and best wishes that Irene has found someone that makes her happy.

Folder 8: Josephine Sanders (Irene Delroy) Correspondence VIII 1924-1929
This set of letters is from Josephine Sanders and her mother Della Sanders. The recipient of these letters is Royal Sanders wife of Della and father of Josephine. These letters are sent from New York where Della spent time with Josephine during her time in show business.

- 3.8.1 Correspondence from Della and Josephine Sanders to Royal Sanders dated August 28, 1924 – July 3, 1923. Topics include: how Josephine wishes she had gone against her father and married Tom Patricola, how Josephine wishes her parents would stop telling her how to live her life, the poor way R.W. Sanders treats Della in the eyes of Josephine, health, weather, Josephine’s excitement about performing, Josephine’s stalker named Larry, a company named “Clayton and Waller” from London want her badly for two shows, and stocks.
- As seen in the correspondence between Josephine and Royal, the two did not agree with the lifestyle that “Irene Delroy” had brought upon the family. From 1921 to 1931 the letters are littered with snide remarks and disapproving thoughts of one another. It is not to say that there was a complete falling out between the two of them, but the letters are sparse for those 10 years. It won’t be till the death of Della that the two are once again brought closer.

Folder 9: Josephine Sanders (Irene Delroy) Fan Letters 1920 - 1935
This folder contains letters from fans of Irene Delroy.

- 3.9.1 Fan letters to Josephine Sanders (Irene Delroy) dated 1920 – 1935.
Topics include: Requests for dinner dates, congratulations on her performances, requests for signed photographs, money, and Christmas presents. “Irene Delroy” received letters from Canada, Brazil, India, and from all over the United States. Yet, the most interesting one is from an inmate named Edward Snyder, who writes hoping that a star like “Irene Delroy” would be able to send him nice gifts for Christmas, in exchange for a friendship later in life.
- Included in the folder is the envelope from Edward Snyder that has a neat insert relating to how to correspond with criminals.
- 3.9.2 Correspondence from “Perc” Pembroke to Irene Delroy dated February 3, 1924
Talk of “Perc” traveling and working with Stan Laurel, memories of times spent with Irene and her mother, family, show business, his love for Irene, and how “Perc” misses Irene
- 3.9.3 Correspondence from Philip R. Davis to Irene Delroy dated 1926
Various love letters; it seems that Mr. Davis and Irene shared at least a kiss. The letters are very poetic, yet he speaks so highly of her that his infatuation makes the reader uncomfortable. Poems written by Phillip are included. It seems that no relationship ever formed. By the sound of Phillip’s letters it seemed as if Irene was very distant, as if she had made quite the mistake

Folder 10: Josephine Sanders (Irene Delroy) Correspondence IX 1932-1937
This folder contains correspondence from Mary (mother), Jean, Rebecca, and Anna (sisters) Austin to Josephine and Bill Austin, Jr. All of the Austins’ correspondence is grouped together in one folder because it seems that the family members took turns writing Josephine and Bill Austin, Jr. and the letters are written as if they are from the family as a whole.

- 3.10.1 Correspondence from the Austins, Mary (mother), Jean, Rebecca, and Anna (sisters) to Josephine and Bill Austin, Jr. January 1, 1932 to July 18, 1937.
Topics include: request to protect and take care of Bill, various visits, the depression’s effect on Bill’s company, Mother Austin warning Josephine and Bill to not acquire any more debts, Bill’s stress, disagreements between Josephine and Bill, Bill’s mounting debt, divorce, Josephine leaving for Reno, and condolences for the loss of Josephine’s father.

The Austin family formed a very close relationship with Josephine and by looking through their letters you can tell that Josephine was a part of the family. Josephine and Bill's marriage was plagued with money problems and internal frustrations. The Austins were very supportive throughout Josephine and Bill's marriage even when the marriage came to an end. From reading these letters you come to respect the Austins for all that they did for Josephine.

Folder 11: Josephine Sanders (Irene Delroy) Correspondence X 1900-1901
This folder contains letters to Josephine Sanders from various family members. The letters are written to baby Josephine who was born on July 21, 1900.

- 3.11.1 Correspondence from Grandma Sue to Josephine Sanders dated July 24, 1900. Topics include: welcoming Josephine and being anxious to see her. A letter from Grandma to Roy and Della is also included, congratulating them and wishing them luck.
- 3.11.2 Correspondence from Aunt Mary to Josephine Sanders dated July 24, 1900 topics include: welcoming into the world, congratulations to Josephine's parents, and advice to be happy and enjoy life)
- 3.11.3 Correspondence from Uncle Noah H. Pike to Josephine Sanders dated July 26, 1900. Topics include: welcoming Josephine and sending congratulations to Della and Roy.
- 3.11.4 Correspondence from Great Aunt Anna to Josephine Sanders dated February 13, 1901. Topics include: receiving her picture, excited to hold her, and the fact that grandma and grandpa Sanders may not love her but to ignore them and to grow strong.
- 3.11.5 Correspondence from Grandpa James T. Sanders to Josephine Sanders dated July 21, 1901. Topics include: weather, wishing Josephine a happy birthday, family, and sending his best wishes.

Folder 12: Josephine Sanders (Irene Delroy) Correspondence XI 1916 – 1932.
This folder contains letters from R.W. Sanders to his two “sweethearts” Della and Josephine Sanders. At the beginning of Josephine’s career in show business Della Sanders joined her in New York. Throughout this correspondence there is as much love for one another as there is criticism. All three people seem to disagree as to how Josephine should live her life and to what exactly everyone wants out of life. The career Josephine made as Irene Delroy undoubtedly put much stress on the Sanders, yet through it all you can still see an unwavering love and respect between Della, Josephine, and Royal.

- 3.12.1 Correspondence from R.W. Sanders to Della Sanders dated June 20, 1916 – June 25, 1916. Topics include: weather, business, Della thinks that R.W. is a grouch, R.W. feels he is being attacked for finding faults in his family, Josephine's reckless driving, family arguments, talks of separation, and very heated arguments.
- 3.12.2 Correspondence from R.W. Sanders to Della Sanders dated November 3, 1919. Topics include: troubles adjusting to a New York life style, keeping Josephine safe, Della's nerves, when Josephine should get married, and best wishes.
- 3.12.3 Correspondence from R.W. Sanders to Della Sanders dated July 7, 1921 to November 1, 1921. Topics include: Uncle Harold's business, weather, Josephine's dance practices, R.W.'s business, Aunt May's health, Woodrow Wilson's health, trip to Washington D.C., and R.W. warning to Della to stay away from Tom Patricola.
- 3.12.4 Correspondence from R.W. Sanders to Della Sanders dated August 7, 1923. Topics include: weather, finances, possible visit to New York, health, and best wishes.

- 3.12.5 Correspondence from R.W. Sanders to Della Sanders dated September 2, 1924. Topics include: Royal defending the accusations that he is a terrible father and husband that were submitted previously by Della, constant fighting, stating his undying love for Della, taking care of his ailing parents, the stress his life has caused him, he feels as if he receives no love from either Josephine or Della, anti- Irish Catholic sentiments
- 3.12.6 Correspondence from R.W. Sanders to Della Sanders dated August 27, 1925 – November 30, 1926. Topics include: business, families health, the rumors that had reached Bloomington that claimed Josephine was engaged, how ashamed Royal was that Josephine had been dating a Roman Catholic, stocks, the failing health of Royal’s parents, Arthur Pillsbury’s car accident in 1925, Royal’s separation from his wife Della, telegram on Mother’s Day, making visits, and the lack of help from Harold, Royal’s brother, in caring for their dying parents.
- 3.12.7 Correspondence from R.W. Sanders to Della Sanders dated March 22, 1932 – May 22, 1932. Topics include: weather, poor business, a troubled marriage, the suffering that Royal feels Della and Josephine has caused him, and general love for all family members. Items: birthday cards and newspaper clippings.

Folder 13: Josephine Sanders (Irene Delroy) Correspondence XII 1936
This folder contains two letters from R.W. Sanders’ office to Josephine, updating her on his condition.

- 3.13.1 Correspondence from Keasbey and Mattison Company to Josephine Sanders October 5 – October 12, 1936. Both letters offer their sympathy to Josephine and her sick father. The letters are also very optimistic towards Royal’s recovery.

Folder 14: Josephine Sanders (Irene Delroy) Correspondence XIII 1936
This folder contains two letters from R.W. Sanders’ doctors, updating Josephine on her father’s health. It has been deduced that Royal Sanders had prostate cancer, but the word “cancer” is avoided in the letters.

- 3.14.1 Correspondence from Dr. E.C. Kelly and Dr. Molbrock to Josephine Sanders September 28 and October 1, 1936. Topics include: the status of R.W. Sanders’ x-ray treatments, Royal’s daily fever, Royal being in good spirits, his bladder incision not healing as quickly as they thought, their hopes to send Royal home, and the doctor’s hope for Royal’s recovery. No mention of cancer.

Folder 15: Josephine Sanders (Irene Delroy) Correspondence XIV 1933
This folder contains two letters from a Mrs. G.M. Harriss discussing Josephine’s mother Della. The first letter is postmarked the day after Della died, yet Mrs. Harriss, living in California, is not aware of Della’s passing. Mrs. Harris mentions an accident that Della was involved in, yet this is the only information we have on such an accident.

- 3.15.1 Correspondence from G.M. Harriss to Josephine Sanders February 6 and 21, 1933. Topics include: Della’s health, how Mrs. Harriss is enjoying California, Della’s gallbladder and liver, Josephine’s husband Bill, how Mrs. Harriss wishes she lived closer so she could help, condolences to Josephine and Royal for the death of Della, what a surprise Della’s death was, and that Mrs. Harriss hopes to visit some time.

Folder 16: Josephine Sanders (Irene Delroy) Correspondence XV 1922 – 1936

Folder 19: Della Sanders Correspondence

This folder includes various correspondences pertaining to Della Sanders.

- 3.19.1 Correspondence from Aunt Anna to Della Sanders Dated June 1 – June 6, 1909. Della's sickness, Della's recovery, Lindley's death, Anna's sympathies to the family, and hope for the future
- 3.19.2 Correspondence from Harold Sanders to Della Sanders dated June 3, 1909. Sympathy for the death of Lindley and missing the funeral
- 3.19.3 Correspondence from Jille to Della Sanders dated June 4, 1909. Grace's wedding, Della's health, weather, and best wishes to Josephine. No mention of Lindley but a few quotes that would help with mourning the death of someone.
- 3.19.4 Correspondence from James T. Sanders to Della Sanders Dated June 4 – June 6, 1909. Sympathy for the death of Lindley, ways of dealing with a death, hope for the future, questions of how much Josephine knows, and James sending his love
- 3.19.5 Correspondence from Louise Burns to Della Sanders dated June 6, 1909. Sympathy for the death of Lindley, God's blessing, Della's improving health, and family visits
- 3.19.6 Correspondence from Ede R. to Della Sanders dated June 6, 1909. Shock upon hearing of the death of Lindley, Della's surgery, family, weather, and sympathy for Della's family
- 3.19.7 Correspondence from Dot to Della Sanders dated June 6, 1909. Della's operation, Lindley's death, Lindley's funeral, hope for Della's quick recovery, and best wishes
- 3.19.8 Correspondence from Anna Johnson to Della Sanders dated June 6, 1909. Della's health, Lindley's death, the death of Anna Johnson's baby daughter, Josephine, the graduation of Anna's son Josh, Lindley's funeral, her family, and the weather

Scrapbooks of Josephine Sanders/Irene Delroy

It is not known who constructed these scrapbooks, but one can deduce that they were composed by either Josephine Sanders or someone very close to her. This conclusion can be drawn due to the original photographs that are included in the scrapbooks. It is highly implausible that someone outside her family and close friends would have had access to such rare photographs.

Scrapbook 1- Labeled “The Ideal Scrapbook” - Shoelace tie.

Time span: July 1921 – April 1922

This scrapbook chronicles the life Josephine Sanders or Irene Delroy, as her stage name dictated. The majority of the materials in this scrapbook are newspaper clippings, some from The Pantagraph but most are from the cities that her shows were performed in. The shows that are chronicled by these newspaper clippings are her “bit” in The Inside of the Cup and The Girl and The Dancing Fool in which she assisted Tom Patricola. The Girl and The Dancing Fool was praised for its comedy, the peculiar dancing of Tom Patricola, and the elegant dance steps of Irene Delroy. Many of the newspaper articles come from the cities that The Girl and The Dancing Fool was performed in as a part of the Orpheum Circuit. This circuit ran from New York City to Los Angeles, heading as far north as Winnipeg and as south as New Orleans. Other items in the scrapbook include magazine articles, advertisements that she posed for, original photographs, poems, and Christmas telegrams. These articles and original photographs document Irene Delroy’s rise to stardom. There are original photographs that are of her family and friends. Also, there are original photographs that were used in advertisements and magazine articles. There is an article on Irene Delroy and why she chooses not to flap, as well as a newspaper article that shows her helping recruit men for the 117th Field Artillery Division in Pittsburg. The final newspaper clipping calls Irene Delroy the most beautiful girl in Vaudeville.

Scrapbook 2- Not labeled, covered in brown paper.

Time span: March 1922-February 1927

In this scrapbook one will find a considerable collection of newspaper and magazine clippings which chronicle her success in Vaudeville. The majority of articles are reviews of her two acts during this time span: Hitchy-koo 1923 and The Greenwich Village Follies which began in 1924 and went through 1929. Irene Delroy signed a five year contract with Ziegfeld’s Follies, a time that would take her to the zenith of her fame. Amongst these newspaper clippings you will find an article that reports that Miss Irene Delroy was awarded the most beautiful and shapely legs in the world by an international committee of artists.

Along with these newspaper clippings you will find magazine articles, fliers from benefits she attended, original photographs used for advertisements, magazine covers that sport Irene Delroy’s face, as well as a weekly newspaper article which featured Irene Delroy teaching readers how to do the Charleston. One of the more peculiar newspaper articles is one that reports of a man dressing up as a cab driver and driving away with Miss Delroy and a friend of hers. The cab driver, whose intentions were to finally meet Miss Delroy, drove several blocks before the girls could escape. The scrapbook ends with articles asking if Irene Delroy will answer the call of Hollywood, in which she replies that she is happy living as she is now.

Scrapbook 3- Black cover and not labeled, pencil star on inside cover in lower right hand cover.
Time span: 1924-1930

This scrapbook is primarily filled with newspaper clippings that follow her time spent in the Village Follies from 1924 till 1928 and reviews of her further work. After her five year contract with the Village Follies, she appeared in Here's Howe! in 1928 and Follow Thru starting in 1929, both which were musical comedy acts. In June 1927, Irene Delroy won the Queen of Musical Comedy crown. Along with her huge success with her performance in Follow Thru, she took part in Show Folks which was a radio program on WABC. In 1930, she appears in the musical comedy Top Speed, and intermingled with the articles on this show are reports that she is heading to Hollywood to perform in talking movie pictures.

Other content in this scrapbook includes: original photographs, including those of her vacation to Europe, Irene Delroy's biography in The New York Times, clothing and tanning advertisements, comic strips in which she was featured starting in 1927 that were published in The New York Daily News, various Broadway programs of her shows, and various autographs of people she met. Miss Irene Delroy was quite the personality in show business at the time, and there are several articles collected in this scrapbook that are interviews of her and how she lives her daily life. There are articles that are similar to the ones that can be found today in celebrity magazines. She is seen as an expert on fashion and dancing, which the newspapers loved to cover. As well as articles on Irene Delroy, there is quite the collection of articles that cover Charles Lindbergh coming to New York City.

Time span: 1927-1929

This Scrapbook includes various articles, newspaper clippings, and photographs of and about Miss Irene Delroy. Several of the newspaper clippings are duplicates of those found in Scrapbook 3. These include newspaper articles on the race for the Musical Comedy Queen Crown and reviews of her work in Follow Thru. There is also a cut out of her cover story in the New York Herald Tribune titled "Vaudeville Beauty". Also, there are several pictures of her posing in front of cars and with her friends, as well as the original photographs used in advertisements. Along with her various cover stories, there is an article in 1928 that shows Miss Irene Delroy standing in front of the world's largest television at the World Fair.

Scrapbook 5- Black with blank cover.
Time span: January 1929-January 1930

This Scrapbook includes many magazine and newspaper articles that follow her career from January 1928 to January 1930. There are many pictures in the magazines and newspapers, as well as personal photographs that focus on Irene Delroy's beauty. Many of her pictures were used as advertisements, including lipstick, tanning, and clothing advertisements. An interesting piece in this scrapbook is a small pamphlet titled, "My secrets of Charm by Irene Delroy" which is actually an advertisement for Marquissette Beauty Products.

Also, included in this scrapbook are interviews of Irene Delroy and an article on her participating in the first "talkie" television transmission. The scrapbook does well to show the busy life that Miss Irene Delroy lived at the height of her fame. As the newspaper and magazine clippings dictate, she participated in benefits and banquets for causes such as the Israel Orphan Asylum at Madison Square Garden. Along the lines of personal mementos, this scrapbook includes personal photographs, letters addressed to her including a happy New Year's Day card from her father, and post cards from a trip to New Mexico.

Scrapbook 6- Has "Scrapbook" on the front, string tie, feathered string sticking out of the top.

Time span: March 1930-September 1931

This scrapbook follows the career of Irene Delroy, as she began to act in movies. The scrapbook contains articles that cover her roles in Oh, Sailor Behave (1930), The Life of the Party (1930), Divorce Among Friends (1930), and Men of the Sky (1931). Irene Delroy was quoted in a couple of articles saying that she enjoyed her life in Hollywood and had no interest in returning to stage life, a quote that contradicts her previous statements, in which she stated that she had no interest in the Hollywood lifestyle. There are several magazine covers and articles of Irene Delroy, focusing on her new role in Hollywood and also her superior sense in fashion. There are also original photographs in the scrapbook as well as a colored drawing that appeared in Dayton News on March 8, 1931. There are also programs from events she attended, including the dedication of the first oceanic theater, the S.S. Belgenland, in which she was in one of the opening shows. Towards the end of the scrapbook are a multitude of articles that chronicle her marriage on July 15, 1931, to William L. Austin Jr. Irene Delroy and her husband honeymooned at a summer home in Quebec. It is on her honeymoon that she was thrown from her horse and suffered a cracked skull, a broken finger, and hip injuries. There are several articles that cover her accident as well as her official retirement from screen and stage.

Scrapbook 7- "Scrapbook" written on the front, two silver bolt ties, first picture is of her and locomotive.

Time span: January 1930- August 1931

This scrapbook includes magazine articles, magazine covers, original photographs, and telegrams. Most of the subject matter covered in this scrapbook is that of Scrapbook 6. Some of the peculiar items are the telegrams to Irene Delroy, wishing her a swell trip to Hollywood as well as several original photographs from promotional shots of The Life of the Party. One particular article on Irene Delroy focuses on how American fashion has come into its own, and that Miss Delroy is heading the way. Other articles cover her career as well as the superior fitness that she has maintained throughout her life. Her marriage and accident are also covered at the end
